MAHONEY, WHO SHOT POLK, LAUGHS WHEN ARRAIGNED; WILL GO TO MATTEAWAN

Jokes When His Bail Is Fixed at $25,000 and Asks Why They Don't Make It More—Insanity Not Doubted.

Michael P. Mahoney, the trembly, wispy bearded old man who in trying to kill Mayor Mitchell yesterday shot Corporation Counsel Frank L. Polk in the jaw, was put through the preliminary stages to-day of his course to Matteawan State Hospital for the criminal insane. Arraigned before Magistrate Simms in Centre Street Court, the would-be assassin waived his right to counsel and to an adjournment. He was committed to the Tombs, under $25,000 bail, to await the action of the Grand Jury. He was bitter, suspicious and even jocular in his shaky voiced speeches in court.

The complaint against Mahoney, signed by Commissioner of Police Woods, who witnessed the shooting and captured the old man before a second shot could be fired, was prepared by Assistant District-Attorneys Du Vivier and Embree under the law passed immediately after the assassination of President McKinley. Until then there was no such crime as "attempted murder," and such an offense as that of yesterday if committed by a sane man was punishable only as "felony assault," with a maximum penalty of ten years in prison. The penalty under the new law is "not more than twenty-five years." Mahoney is charged with attempting to kill Mayor Mitchell as well as with wounding Mr. Polk.

Mahoney was brought into court at a little after 10 o'clock. Detective Collins had him by the arm and Detective O'Connell, Meehan and others were close behind. Mahoney, thin and gaunt, swung loosely right and left, guessing at the direction in which the judge wanted him to go; often he guessed wrong and was swung out abruptly, but not roughly, into the right course. From the prison penitentiary he was taken across the court room to the complaint clerk's office, where he was kept until Magistrate Simms had finished the case of an Italian woman.

When brought before the Magistrate Mahoney slammed his derby hat down in front of him and clasped his big knotted red hands over the back of a chair. He stuck his head forward and keenly looked into the face of Magistrate Simms. The sleeves of his faded overcoat were shorter than his coat sleeves, which were worn to fringes and hung around his knobby wrists. He looked out toward the bench when Magistrate Simms began reading the complaint.

"Michael P. Mahoney, alias David Rose," said the Magistrate, "you are

WILSON WILL ASK CONGRESS TO BACK ORDERS TO HUERTA

President's Patience Exhausted By New Quibbles and He Writes With Own Hand Announcement of Time Limit for Salute.

SOME CONGRESSMEN ARE CLAMORING FOR WAR.

President Will Lay Case Before Them on Monday and May Be Empowered to Seize Ports.

By Samuel M. Williams.

(Staff Correspondent of The Evening World.)

WASHINGTON, April 18.—It's war or peace with Mexico by 6 o'clock Sunday night. President Wilson sent an ultimatum to Huerta this afternoon giving him until that hour to yield and fire the demanded salute to the American flag. If the Mexican dictator does not surrender President Wilson will go before Congress Monday morning, deliver a message in person explaining in full the situation and ask for approval of aggressive action. This is his official announcement written by himself on his private typewriter:

"Gen. Huerta is still insisting upon doing something less than has been demanded and something less than would constitute an acknowledgment that his representatives were entirely in the wrong in the indignities they have put upon the Government of the United States.

"The President has determined that if Gen. Huerta has not yielded by 6 o'clock on Sunday afternoon he will take the matter to Congress on Monday."

The President has not fully determined what that action will be. Circumstances between now and Monday morning will govern the degree of severity he will recommend. At the White House and in the State Department a close blockade of Mexican ports is favored.

CONGRESSMEN WILL ASK IMMEDIATE INVASION.

In Congress there are a number of Senators and Representatives who will loudly clamor for immediate invasion. They assert that blockade means massacre, murder and starvation for all foreigners in the country. Nobody in Washington now expects Huerta to yield. There is general opinion that the wily old Indian has deliberately played for this situation and is intent on forcing the United States into open aggression.

His end is very near in any event, and as a forlorn hope he is preparing to pull the whole house down on the heads of his faithful followers. Both President Wilson and Secretary Bryan have been surprised that the Dictator has held on so long. The Secretary expected his downfall weeks ago. Now his doom is sealed. Blockade, perhaps invasion of Mexico, is almost certain.

This crisis was brought to a climax this morning by the report of a message from Charge O'Shaughnessy in Mexico City addressed to Secretary Bryan. It stated that Gen. Huerta still demurred against firing a salute to the American flag unless a simultaneous one was returned.

HUERTA FALLS BACK TO OLD ARGUMENT.

The Dictator went on to argue about the insults and outrages that have been inflicted upon American sailors and officials. He contended that they were not so important as this Government sought to make them and, besides, a due apology and reparation had been made by local officials for all that had been done. He did not see that the National Government was called upon to humble itself to such an extent as that demanded.

Huerta was careful all the way through not to fall into the trap of reopening the case and inject various insidious points of argument and evasion. He said he was willing to fire the salute provided the Americans would return it simultaneously with his guns.

President Wilson's determination to end the quibble was made under unusual circumstances. Early in the morning he had left Washington in an automobile to drive to a country club across the Potomac River for a game of golf. All the week he had been closely confined to the White House under extreme pressure of work.

When Secretary Bryan partly deciphered the despatch from Mexico he informed the President's secretary, Joseph Tumulty, that things were serious. An effort was made to get the President at the country club by telephone, but he was out on the lake. Jack Wheeler, a Secret Service
